(2019)

Bible House of Grace contains an easy to read New and Old Testament commentary full of spiritual treasures and pearls, complete with an insightful resource guide illuminating God's love and grace.

Although I believe my aim is pure and God's will perfect this document is still the product of a human man, as to such I neither claim perfect knowledge or perfect understanding.

Prophets are Not Needed Today.

The word prophet embraces both Old and New Testament prophets. Some feel that the word prophet only refers to those who predict future events, but this is an error, prophecy is not limited to only those who received future predictions. Moses was a prophet of God yet much of what he spoke had nothing to do with future predictions, which means the word prophet also embraces those who received inspired revelations of God's word regarding the LORD'S instruction, statutes, laws and promises.

In the New Testament the word prophet embraces both those who predicted future events and those who received, by the inspiration of God's Spirit revelations of the New Covenant, and the Gospel of Christ during the time of Acts, because at that time there was no written New Testament Scriptures for people to follow, but now we have, what these original prophets spoke by the inspiration of God's Spirit recorded in written form on the pages of the Bible.

Since God's word originated from inspired prophecy and is now recorded in the Bible the word prophet now embraces whoever is teaching the word of God from the Bible since the words, they are teaching are prophecy in print. Today we do not need men who prophecy future events, since all we need to know regarding Christ's return and the end of this age as we know it is now recorded for us in God's Holy book the Bible.

It would not be wrong to say, "whoever is teaching (correctly) from Scripture, the things concerning Christ's return, and biblical future events yet to come, are temporary standing in the role of a prophet during the time of their teaching."

As the founder of Bible House of Grace, I would like to thank the many Christian scholars, commentators and theologians who have gone before me, and the many today, who have freely made available their works to enhance the knowledge of the Bible to all people worldwide. It is only with the help of these faithful writers that much of Bible House of Grace exists as it does today.
